The frustration of system failures (aka crashes or blue screens), long the bane of computer users, can now all but disappear. Installing the Single PC Edition of the Alexander SPK (System Protection Kit) for Windows, provides dramatic savings in time, frustration and, in many cases, of money. From the SPK's ability to report the cause of a PC crash to the fact that operation is automated, the SPK will simplify your crash resolution. All in all, the Alexander SPK helps ensure that your PC operates more smoothly and that your downtime is minimized.

This Single PC Edition of the SPK automatically manages your PC during system crash events. It ensures that crash data is captured and that the system is restarted without human intervention. It alerts you with a message that pops up over your work area on the screen. Then it offers to display the SPK Crash Report, which pinpoints the misbehaved software. Once you know the cause, resolving the problem is often a simple matter of getting an update from the vendor of the faulty software. In cases where an update is not available, the SPK can send a report that the vendor's engineering department can use to resolve the problem for you.
